

Training Summer / Seasonal Employees

Public entities rely on seasonal employees to perform many tasks during the summer months. Tasks include mowing grass, painting, collecting trash, guarding beaches and more. Often seasonal employees work alongside full-time employees. This most likely means they face the same hazards as the full-time employee. Therefore, employers must provide the same level of protection to seasonal employees as full-time employees.

Employers must evaluate the hazards faced by workers and identify the personal protective equipment needed for tasks they may perform. If the evaluation revealed a hazard to the workers' feet which requires full-time workers to wear protective-toed work boots, then seasonal employees doing the same job must also wear protective boots.

Training is a critical safety measure that must be provided to seasonal employees. Training and subsequent evaluations are the only way supervisors can be assured that seasonal employees have the necessary knowledge and skills to do the job safely and efficiently. The MEL has provided some resources to assist our members train summer, seasonal employees.

OSHA (www.osha.gov) has several resources on safety for temporary and youth workers. There are sections which provide information directed at employers, young workers, and the workers' parents.

The New Jersey Department of Labor provides rules and excellent guidance for young workers at http://www.nj.gov/labor/wagehour/content/child_labor.html. Be sure department supervisors, full-time staff, and the young worker are educated on the rules.

Research shows that an employee's first year is the most dangerous in terms of having an injury. For many JIF members, every year brings a new group of first-year employees. Supervisors of these workers must be acutely aware of this and take steps to protect them. Three effective steps are:

- Provide training and verify learning
- Conduct frequent Job Site Observations and coach them on making safer decisions and actions
- Assign a strong supervisor/mentor to work with seasonal employees

The Safety Director's Office wishes everyone a safe and enjoyable summer.
